Dear Mr. Johnson,

I am a college sophomore with over five years of experience providing child care to children between the ages of five and 10. I came across your posting for the babysitter position on Care.com, and I'm confident that I would be an ideal fit for your daughter Sarah. As an aspiring teacher, I excel in planning engaging and educational activities to support child development.

Over the past two years, I provided child care to a family with two siblings, ages eight and ten. Not only did their performance in school improve during our time together, but I also planned safe and educational field trips to broaden their horizons. I believe that I'm the ideal fit for the babysitter position based on my strong background in child care:

- Provided exceptional child care services to families and children between the ages of five and ten and planned educational activities using play-based learning strategies
- Supervised children during local field trips and created a safe, nurturing environment
- Monitored child behavior, resolved conflicts, and utilized positive reinforcement strategies
- Prepared a variety of meals and snacks for children based on nutrition requirements

I hope to speak with you further regarding the babysitter. Feel free to contact me via phone or email for any additional questions you may have on my background. I appreciate your time and consideration.

Best regards,
